PROFESSIONAL OBJECTIVES.

Technological advances have created a fast growing dynamic change in healthcare services. Healthcare administrators are challenged to steer and safeguarding high standards quality services in this current climate. In order to succeed it is vital for me as a future healthcare leader to adapt and internalize dynamic leadership qualities. These include:

- To create and develop a lean high quality organization. This is aimed to improve overall running business process with lean, evidence based management without sacrificing quality.
- To be passionate to accommodate and serve the needs of the clients which includes patients and healthcare staffs. This includes to motivate and inspire staffs to have a good communication and attentive skill to approach patient problems with passion.
- To continually measure the services provided via quality tools and projects for ongoing improvement in delivering health services.
